Dear Parent/Guardian,

I am writing to inform you that I am undergoing treatment for early stage breast cancer. I am lucky that they found it early and it was the non-spreading type. I am going to be just fine and I do not anticipate missing any school time.

Since we are planning on hosting a breast cancer awareness “Get Your Pink On” week in early November, I thought I would share this information with you. I am also going to be talking to each class before our event so they may come home with questions. I will go into very little detail with the younger grades since the concept is hard for them to understand. With each grade level, I will tie the talk into part of our curriculum relating to noninfectious diseases. Let me know if you have any questions.

Yours sincerely,

Kristy Jones
