

Parents, Staff, and Students of Southgate:

My name is Julie Rubemeyer and I am honored to be the new principal at Southgate Public School! As you will see, I am passionate about student achievement. I believe every student deserves a school filled with educators working together to help each student reach their potential and develop character traits that will serve them throughout their lives.

I would like to share some information about myself in advance of meeting you. I have taught elementary school, middle school, and high school. I have also served as a literacy coach, mentored new teachers, and served as a teacher representative on a School-Based Decision Making Council. Overall, I have sixteen years of experience in education.

My husband and I live in Erlanger and have three sons. Max will be in sixth grade, Dexter will be in fifth grade, and our youngest, Jett, will be in second grade. My family has visited Southgate and they are excited to join me in being part of the Southgate community.

I understand and value the benefits of a small, community-based school because I attended one as an elementary and middle school student. Teachers and parents in my schools worked closely together and the school was like family. It was this special experience that sparked my lifelong goal to be a teacher.

As principal, my decisions will always be in what I believe to be the best interest of Southgate students. I welcome your input as a parent and stakeholder in our Southgate community and encourage you to attend school events, SBDM meetings, and board meetings to participate in the educational process which is, after all, about educating your children.

Southgate has dedicated and talented teachers, a committed administrative team led by Superintendent Greg Duty, an engaged board of education, and strong community support. With these groups working together, Southgate will continue to be a school where students have a sense of belonging and where they can reach their potential.

Please join me in keeping our focus on student achievement and a Southgate school culture that promotes excellence and builds character in our students. I look forward to meeting you and thank you for the opportunity to serve as principal of Southgate Public School.

Warmest Regards,
Julie Rubemeyer
